MEXARC MEMBERS

With members everywhere, we can ensure an exchange of knowledge, experience and best practice. Themes cover not only experimental archaeology, skills, living history and interpretation, but also dialogue with visitors, and of course museum management. EXARC members form a mutually supportive network.

JEXARC JOURNAL

The aim of our Journal is to channel the interest of those involved in experimental archaeology and education in the field, at universities, archaeological open-air museums and living history groups.

P EXARC PROJECTS

From its beginning EXARC's (in)formal contacts between colleagues led to several kinds of cooperation, some of which were funded by the European Union. Examples are work on adult education, finding the most frequently asked questions of our visitors or defining archaeological open-air museums. New ideas are developed continuously and are discussed by the members of EXARC.
